I mean I'm blind and I can't see what's in my yard. I bought a puppy. I'm in my 20's and you will probably read this and think I'm an idiot. Well, I don't know. I don't care. I could go through life blind. But I have a blindness problem. I can go blind at anytime and I just need to realize it. I don't see the little things I need to see. I got a little dog. If I can't see the puppy, I really wouldn't know it was there unless I was tied to a chair and was being fed by a waitress with a bowl of water every hour. Not that I haven't tried to work with what I have. I make my walks short so I can find food to be able to see what I'm seeing. I could use training because I have been trying to go through the yard too fast and the puppy is acting like a little rocket on his first day of freedom. It's funny. I might be blind but I never have gotten very good at the blindness part. I would really rather play with my puppy than work on the blindness. I just don't know what in the hell you would like for me to try. I don't mind working with you at all. Just tell me what you want me to do and I'll do it. Hi, thanks for visiting me. I just ran across your blog and I loved what you said about your puppy. That is so cute. I recently had the same thing happen to me. I let my dog run free, because I was too lazy to take him for a walk. I didn't realize until about 30 minutes later that my dog wasn't with me anymore. I'm still going through that process. A couple of days ago, I left my dog with a girlfriend. I thought it would be fine. I'm not sure what I was thinking. I haven't seen him since.
